3rd annual City Alive! party returns

SINGAPORE – The third annual City Alive! party returns on Feb 20 at a new venue – the tracks in front of the Pit Building, which will transform into a 360-metre-long mega dance floor.

After this year's bash along the City Hall front drew more than 5,000 partygoers, organisers the People's Association and People's Association Youth Movement expect a bigger turn-out of 8,000 this time.

Space Cowboy from the United Kingdom will make his debut Singapore appearance, along with other international acts like DJ Sarasa (Japan) and All Area Crew (Japan), and local deejays like Andrew T and Inquisitive.

The street party begins at 10.15pm, after the grand finale of next year's Chingay Parade, and runs till 4am.

Against the scenic backdrop of the Singapore Flyer, there will be an aerial performance showcasing LED night flyers by GoFlyKite. City Alive! 2010 will be marked by a festive atmosphere featuring music and dance activities taking place throughout the night, from exciting dance battles to sexy party mascots and stilt-walkers.

Revellers can get into the mood by also participating in fringe activities like ultraviolet face painting and getting airbrush tattoos.

Advance tickets — $15 for PAssion Card holders and $20 for the public — are available at Sistic agents, www.sistic.com.sg and via the hotline 6348 5555. Tickets at the door will be priced at $28. Minimum age of entry is 18 and all ticket prices include a standard drink.
